

Transcript – Episode 20

LOUI: Hello, and welcome to UDL in 15 minutes where educators discuss their experiences with UDL. I'm Loui Lord Nelson, UDL author and leader.

It's summer time in the United States and most schools are on a holiday break. Others in the world are still within their teaching year. UDL in 15 Minutes is taking a break from production during July, but that's the beauty of podcasts – they're always there waiting for you.

For this episode, I've created a table so you can easily choose podcasts that will interest you. Of course, we know that designing with UDL is transferable across all learning environments and we can all be inspired by educators at all levels, so I invite you to catch up on over 4 hours of easy learning and listening. Have a wonderful July and look for new episodes in August. You're gonna love 'em!