surroundings once he learns.

Goals: Follow a tactile schedule, raise his hand when wanting or needing something, and to make choices.

Interests: Loves shakers and bells, bouncing on a ball, swinging, and music.

Other: _____ is blind, no vision. He learns through all his other senses and use of tactile objects. His auditory skills are amazing, he quickly picks up on people's names through their voices when he is consistently around them. He is a very loving and kind young man but at times can display behaviors. When frustrated _____ will hit himself, bite himself or others, throw objects, and use foul words. When behaviors occur, a firm voice with minimal direct words is best (e.g.-"no, we use kind words only." "_____, not allowed."). When in doubt, call me! I know him very well.

Teacher of Record/Teacher of Service:

Teacher for 5th Grade:

Seating Needs: Doesn't really have any particular needs, but on occasion it is good for him to have some movement.

Classroom Placement Preference: Sit with peers that are great role models and not attention seekers, _____ is easily distracted by others. Close proximity to the teacher to keep him focused, on task, and provide check in would be beneficial.

Communication Needs: _____ can communicate his needs and wants, but oftentimes will not ask for help. I think the true communication barrier is that he doesn't know "how to" ask/ say I need help and lacks social skills

Strength: _____ is willing to help others, when given strategies he uses them to complete work, social, and does well with choices.

Goals: _____ is currently working on letter sounds, adding, 1:1 correspondence for numbers 1-50. Addition to his goals in class we are working on double digit addition using touch points or calculator to solve, fry words, and follow a schedule.

Interests: Cars, fidgets, Fortnite
